Every year we accept one million LEGAL immigrants into our country. They have undergone numerous background checks, spent years waiting, lots of money, and finally having their dreams realized, they will become self-supporting and productive citizens. Millions more have entered our country illegally. And now, there are thousands of migrants waiting in Tijuana to enter our country illegally, and many thousands more on the way.

For decades, Congress has talked about fixing our broken immigration system. All talk, but zero action!

Our President is keeping his promise to the citizenry of the United States by securing our southern border to protect us from mass illegal migration, drugs, and sex trafficking. Simply put, if it protects just one of our children or grandchildren from the murderous drugs, sex traffickers, or gangs not allowed into our country, then it is such a small price to pay.

Securing our border will not solve all the immigration problems, but it is a great place to start. Congress, do your job!
